Beyond the cultural glasses

Diversity-conscious education in international youth work

Workshop with Anne Sophie Winkelmann

Anti-bias and diversity-conscious education

a.winkelmann@vervielfaeltigungen.de

In international youth work we often find a simplified perspective on the group we are working with. “They come from different countries – they belong to different cultures - we have to learn about this difference”. The diversity-conscious approach offers a new perspective on diversity and experiences within the group. The workshop encourages us to reflect upon own belongings and experiences and to enjoy “wearing different glasses”. We will work out attitudes and skills for team-leaders and define starting points for change in your coming youth exchanges.

10:00 Managing conflicts in a German Israeli work context
Methods, Tools, Chances & Challenges

Workshop with Shemi Shabat, Educator Berlin

Conflicts are unavoidable part of everyday life and confront us in different situations at work, home and many other fields. Especially in intercultural educational settings conflicts can negatively influence the atmosphere in the group and the group dynamic. What are possible lines of conflicts in German-Israeli work context? How can we recognize them and use them stimulate a positive learning process?

In this part we want to analyze and recognize together the causes and factors of potential and real conflicts and try to develop strategies of understanding and managing them productively.
